What are ETJ Zones?

An ETJ, or an Extraterritorial Jurisdiction, is outside the city limits.

While the city may help plan growth in that area, ETJ residents don't live in the city and are considered non-residents for library membership.

What is a MUD?

A MUD, or Municipal Utility District, is a special district that provides services like water and wastewater.

Living in a MUD does not necessarily mean you live within the city limits. For library memberships, residency is based on whether your address is inside the city limits, not whether you live in a MUD.
