Seeing The Full Picture: Navigating Age-Related Retinal Health

As we age, our vision naturally changes—but knowing the difference between normal aging and the early warning signs of retinal conditions is critical for preserving sight. This educational workshop provides a clear, accessible overview of macular health. We will explore how the retina works, what happens when age-related conditions develop, and the importance of early detection.

Attendees will learn to recognize the subtle, early symptoms of common age-related eye conditions and will be guided through a hands-on demonstration of how to use an Amsler Grid for at-home vision monitoring.

This session is purely educational; no products or services will be sold.

Led by a board-certified ophthalmologist and clinical research professionals specializing in retinal health and macular conditions. The team at Austin Clinical Research is dedicated to advancing medical knowledge and educating the community on the importance of proactive eye care and clinical screening.
